The Stock on the New York Exchange Given a Jump-Silver Also Active.

fBy telegraph to the Dispatch.1 back of any kind, there was a widespread sentiment that a reaction was in order, and to-day it came, the bulls seeming rather to favor it than to oppose it, probably under the idea that it would bring in fresh buy-ing and give increased preadth to the mar-ket.

Dealings in the general list, however, were completely overshadowed by those in sugar-refineries, which were given a jump upon the short interest for completion of the reorganization and the prospective payment of 5 per cent. in cash, which is called the deferred dividend. There was an extremely large and excited crowd gathered in the Stock Exchange this morning and at the sound of the gavel a scene of the wildest excitement ensued, large orders having been placed in the market to buy white.

The shorts fairly climbed over each other to recoup their contracts. The stock had closed Saturday at 70%, and the first sale recorded this morning was at 74. while higher quotations were made on different sides of the crowd at the same time. The lemand was so great, however, that 31% was reached before this demand was satisfied.

In the general list there was the same taking of profits which in the afternoon forced the list off, and while there were a few specially strong spots, such as Chicago gas, Northern Pacific, Missouri Pacific, and silver certificates, the Grangers were weak, Atchison and Rock Island in particular, and Lackawanna also tailed behind the rest of the list.

The early gains were all wiped out, though on a spurt in Chicago gas in the afternoon on rumors of a new bull pool in the stock and a large probable dividend a rise of nearly 5 per cent was scored, but realizations afterward wiped out the greater portion of this improvement.

A meeting of citizens and property-owners of Lee district, Henrico county, was held in the rooms of the Chamber of Comhold in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. There were present Captain John A. Coke, J. G. Whitlock, J. J. Wilson, James B. Elam, Major J. H. Derbyshire, J. A. Courtney, Charles E. Wingo, E. Harvey Clark, H. L. Pelonze, James Caskie, J. R. Willis, Israel Stern, and Sol. Haas.

Captain Coke was called to the chair and Mr. Charles K. Willis elected secretary.

OBJECT OF THE MEETING.

Mr. Whitlock stated that the object of the meeting was to consider means for improving the property in Lee district by grading it, extending through it streets, gas-mains, water-mains, sewers, &c. His idea, he said, was that an improvement company should be formed, that the cost of improvements should be charged upon the property-owners and that they should be reimbursed by the municipal authorities when the district becomes incorporated in the city. OBJECT OF THE MEETING.

when the district becomes incorporated the city.

Mr. Caskie moved that a committee of five be appointed to formulate a plan for the improvement of the district, said committee to report at some future meeting. The motion was adopted, and on motion of Major Derbyshire Messrs. Elam, Pelouze, and Crenshaw were appointed a committee to select five gentlemen representing the different portions of the district, who should constitute the improvement committee.

Mr. Bryan made a statement as to the condition of the suit brought by some of the property-holders enjoining the com-missioners appointed under the act incor-porating the district from levying an extra porating the district from levying an extra tax on the property for improvements in the district. The County Court, he said, had decided in favor of the commissioners. He did not know whether or not an appeal would be taken.

Mr. Pelouze reported the following persons to constitute the improvement committee provided for above: Messrs. James Caskie, J. G. Whitlock, N. W. Bowe, B. Ran. Wellford, and John K. Branch. After which the meeting adjourned to 5 o'clock Monday evening next, when another conference will be held in the rooms of the Chamber.

Lee District, as is generally known to the readers of the Dispatch, is that part of the county embracing the bulk of the valuable property just west of the city, which is building up rapidly. It was incorporated at the last session of the General Assembly and a board of commissioners, of which Mr. Joseph Bryan is chairman, were appointed by the County Court to levy a special tax and direct the local improvements.

Used as a Tobacco-Factory.

At the instance of Mr. E. D. Christian, Judge Ingraham, of Manchester, yesterday granted an injunction restraming Goodman Brothers from assigning the lease of the warehouse No. 10 south Twenty-first street to Myers Brothers & Co., and enjoining the latter from occupying it as a tobacco-factory.

The petition sets forth that the building was leased by Mr. Christian to Goodman Brothers from October 1, 1889, for a term of three years to be used as a broom-factory, they agreeing not to assign the lease without written permission. It then goes on to say that Goodman Brothers, having vacated the building, assigned the lease to Myers Brothers & Co., who began to move in their tobacco-manufacturing appliances, which business, it is claimed, would do irreparable damage, being much harder on the building than the one for for which it was leased—broom-making.

A nicely-dressed young man entered the jewelry-store of J. T. Allen & Co., on Main street near Fourteenth, yesterday afternoon and asked to look at some jewelry. His movements excited the suspicion of the clerk waiting on him, who reached behind the counter and secreted a pistol in his pocket so that he could halt the customer in case he attempted to take anything and leave the store.

After looking at several rings and watch-charms the visitor left the establishment. The clerk then counted the number of rings in the tray and found that one was missing. Just at this time Mr. Allen came in and was told of the circumstances concerning the loss of the ring and given a description of the supposed thief. He started out to find the man and also to get a policeman. Meeting Officer W. C. Wilkinson Mr. Allen told him of the loss of his ring, and with the accurate descriptions given by the clerk the policeman started out to find the man.

VISITED SEVERAL JEWELLERS. The Finance Committee reported the ordinance in regard to the employment of four doctors to attend the poor. The physicians are to be under the control of the President of the Board of Health; are to answer calls both day and night; are to be paid at the rate of $50 per month, and are to be elected biennally by both branches of the Council in joint session at the same time as other city officials and employes, except for the first term, when they shall be elected as soon as possible after the passage of the ordinance.

It was originally intended to have the city districted by wards, but after some discussion the following divisions were agreed upon:

Fourth District: All that portion of the city lying west of the last-given line.

CONCURRED IN. Meanwhile the stranger visited Tyler's jewelry-store, and also that of Goddard. & Moses. After looking at several articles in the former establishment he selected a watch and chain asking that it might be laid asde for a short while until he could come for it. He gave the name of J. Morgan and said that he was boarding at the Exchange Hotel.

After going up-town Mr. Allen, in passing by Tyler's, saw the man in the store, and entering, he called one of the clerks aside and told him of his suspicions. The would-be customer left just at this time and was arrested a few minutes later in a toilet-room at the Davis House, the door of which was locked.

CONCERNED 18.

The following matters from the Common Council were agreed to by the Board:
Resolution authorizing the Finance Committee to negotiate temporary loans not exceeding $100,000 from time to time as the needs of the At the Second police-station, where the prisoner was carried, he was carefully searched. On his person were discovered a ring and three scarf-pins. Some of these were identified by the jowellers whose were identified by the jewellers whose stores he visited.

Several of the articles were concealed under the prisoner's arm, and in being searched he endeavored to so hold himself that the goods could not be found, but Captain Angle was too smart for him and said, "Hold up your arm, sir." The prisoner did this and several of the scarfpins dropped down. Despite this conclusive evidence against him, he denied having stolen the jewelry and expressed great indignation at the charge.

In searching the man, which necessitated the removal of the greater part of his clothing, the police discovered that his entire body above the waist was tattooed. His arms were likewise embellished with numerous pictures, all worked in red and blue India-ink.

"PROPUSELY ILLUSTRATED." Mr. Turpin offered a resolution appropriating $5,000 for the improvement of Jefferson Park. Referred to the Committee on Grounds and Buildings.

The Board accepted an invitation from Colonel H. C. Jones to be present at the regimental medal presentation Thursday night.

regimental medal presentation Thursday night.

Mr. Crenshaw offered a resolution providing for a committee of three—two from the Council and one from the Board—to represent the city's interest in all meetings of the Virginia Agricultural and Mechanical Society until July 1, 1892. Adopted.

A resolution was introduced by Mr. Carv, providing for an appropriation of $15,000 for the purchase of a school lot to take the place of the one on which the Central School now stands. Referred to the Finance Committee.

A petition was read from the Chamber of Commerce asking that the ordinance for His arms were likewise embellished with numerous pictures, all worked in red and blue India-ink.

"PROFUSELY ILLUSTRATED."

Several of the policemen, actuated by a spirit of curiosity, asked the prisoner if he would let them examine the tattooing on his body carefully. Though somewhat indicative of cannibalistic tastes, the work was nevertheless quite pretty. The follow, who seemed to be very good-natured, consented to make this expose of decorative art as applied to humanity, and removed his shirt. He has a splendid physique, and folding his brawny arms over a well-developed chest, submitted himself to inspection. The "cops" then crowded around him and examined the decorations. On each arm he bore the "Stars and Stripes" worked in red and blue, while other designs such as ships and human figures were scattered over him. But what anused his spectators most was the inconsistency—or perhaps consistency—of the drawings on his back. There they beheld a well-drawn picture of our Saviour on the cross and on each side were the two thieves who died beside Him. The whole design, which was nicely executed, extended from his shoulder-blades nearly to the waist. The two thieves, however, were represented as being much smaller than the Messiah.

"How did you get them on you?" inquired one of the blue-coated guardians of the peace.

Morgan hesitated a moment and then said that they had been worked on him in China while he was serving on a man-of-war. It was evident from his replies to numerous interrogations, which were merely asked to satisfy the curiosity of the policemen who were clustering around him, that the prisoner was determined not to say any more about himself than he could help.

Indignant at being suspected. INDIGNANT AT BEING SUSPECTED.

He told Captain Angle, however, that he was from Illinois and said that he came here from Washington. At the station he gave the name of D. Morgan, but in one of the jewelry stares he said it was J. Morgan. The police, however, are of the opinion that both of these names are adiases. Captain Angle was candid enough to express to the prisoner the belief that he had just come from some prison, whereupon the latter drew himself proudly up and said, "I do not wish to insuit you, sir."

ARTICLES PAWNED.

The officers found that Morgan had pawned two diamond puns and a plated watch-chain at Jacobs's.

The prisoner, when seen on the street, presented a very-respectable appearance. He carried a satchel in which were a few pieces of soiled linen. Upon inquiry it was ascertained that he was not stopping at any of the hotels in the city. The prisoner has a pleasant face, wears no beard, and seems to be about twenty-five years old. While very well developed and symmetrical, it is easy to perceive that he has done no hard work recently, as his muscles are flabby and his skin very white,

The second annual meeting of the members of the Hebrew Home for the Aged and Infirm was held at the Eleventh-Street synagogue Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mr. Henry S. Huzler, the president, occupied the chair and Mr. Charles Huzler, secretary, was at his post.

There was a large attendance of both gentlemen and ladies, and the fact that there are no present beneficiaries did not detract in the least from the very general interest manifested.

The object of the organization is to procure the means with which to maintain a home for the aged Israelites of Richmond when such an institution becomes necessary. The projectors of the enterprise take the view that it is the part of forethought and wisdom to make all provision long in advance, so that when the time arrives that the home is needed it will be ready.

The president, Mr. Henry S. Hutzler, read a comprehensive report, giving a full and detailed account of the workings of the organization since its institution.

The following figures are taken from the Secretary and Treasurer's report:

A resolution by Mr. Droste that the directors appoint a committee to promote German emigration to Virginia was also adopted.

The sense of the association as expressed in the speeches endorsing this last resolution was that immediate steps baken to give it practical effect.

They Quit Work.

Eleven out of the thirteen stove-mounters employed at the Richmond Stove-Works, corner of Twenty-fifth and Main streëts, went out on a strike yesterday afternoon an hour or two before time for quitting work.

A couple of hours before a committee from Union 5223, of which all the men angaged in this particular class of work are members, waited on Mr. Anderson, the proprietor, and asked for an advance of 5 per cent. This was refused and the men left their work.

Mr. George Cary Childrey, who for twenty years or more had been a magis-trate for Jefferson Ward, died at the Re-treat for the Sick yesterday afternoon at Scalonk

For several days past the deceased had suffered from a severe cough, and when he left the First station-house a little after midnight Sunday he complained of feeling badly. Later in the morning he was taken a great deal worse, and was removed from his room, on Franklin street between Eighteenth and Nineteenth, to the Retreat. Death was caused by pneumonia.

The deceased was in his fiftieth year and was a brother of City-Treasurer John K. Childrey and Messry. S. Judson and Roland H. Childrey. Though sorely afflicted, he was a man of unvarying good nature and always had a smile and cheerful word for all.

It was this patience that won him friends on all sides. The First station-house was his headquarters, and every officer in the district was his friend.

The funeral will be from the First Baptist church at 4 P. M. to-day.

Help for the Home.

At the regular meeting of Fraternal Lodge, No. 53, held at St. Albans Hall last night the degree of Entered Apprentice was conferred on one candidate. The lodge was officially visited by District Deputy Grand Master William Ryan, who delivered an address. On being escorted to the East that official was received with the grand honors and took the chair.

In response to an appeal in behalf of the Masonic Orphans' Home made by Past-Master Julius Strause five members of the lodge became life-members at $100 each and twenty became contributing members at $5 each per year. Of the last named all but one, a New York brother who happened to be present, were members of No. 53.

Richmond Theatre.

Kate Claxton in the Two Orphans drew a good house at the Theatre last night. The play is always attractive, and in its renewal by Miss Claxton she evidently made it as impressive as possible. Her representation of the blind girl won, as it always has, the sympathy of the audience, and she received much deserved applause. Miss Vida Croly as Henriette, the asset or orphan, was good, and so was Mr. Henry Vankendoff as is Frechard.

The place was well costumed and the support was good, while the senery was much admired. The Two Orphans is a great favorite and bears being witnessed many times, and will doubtless draw full houses.

Benjamin Harrison, President of the United States, and James G. Blaine, Secre-tary of State, will not be among the guests invited to attend the Assembly ball to be held in this city on January 39th.

The propriety of sending invitations to these two well-known Republicans was dis-

Antiquities.

There was a marked unanimity of opinion that neither of the two should be honored with any notice whatever in regard to the ball. Every lady present agreed that men who have manifested their hatred for Virginia as Harrison and Blaine have done deserve no courtesies at our hands.

The Central Committee had never entertained the thought of extending invitations to either of them and they were surprised to learn that there was a popular impression that "little Benjy" and the "Plumed Knight" would be among the invited guests.

THOSE WIG WILL BE INVITED.

In regard to the invited guests, however, in regard to the invitations will be extended to Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland and other distinguished persons outside the State who are known to be friends of the State who are known to be and showed considerable improved can the state of the State who are known to be a deal of the State who are known to be and showed considerable improved can describ RICHMOND, VA., January 11, 1891.

To the Editor of the Dispatch:

I have borne and foreborne in the matter of gas until I have determined to state my grievance to the public. I am charged gas bills that are perfectly preposterous in view of what I consume. For December my bill was $12.45. There was not $2 worth of gas burned on my premises in that month. A neighbor on another street who burns more than I do was charged $4.30 for same month. I don't complain of being thus muleted. What I complain of being thus muleted, when I don't complain of being thus muleted. What I complain of being the muleted what I am overcharged for is worthless. I am trying this morning to read the Richmond Dispatch at 6 o'clock with three burners going at full capacity and I can't read it, and I have very good eyes—the ladies say very pretty eyes. My gas bills remind me of a story told me by a friend. His father bought a horse from a jockey. He knew he was cheated. After paying, he asked what was wrong about the horse. Said the jockey: "It's a bargain now and everything goes." Yes," said the buyer. "Well, if you turn that horse in the field you never can catch him, and when you do catch him he ain't worth a d—n." William L. Royald. The following gentlemen have been selected as the Floor Committee:

The plans for the decorations at the Theatre on the night of the ball have not yet been fully decided upon, but they will be very handsome. The motto of the association—Dei Gratia Virginia Condita—will probably be placed over the stage.

Colored and flash lights will be thrown upon the dance, and the scene promises to be one of surpassing loveliness. A Pleasing Senso

What Her Friends in Richmond Have Heard of Her Sickness.

The telegram from Paris published all over the country Sunday stating that Amelie Rives Chanler, the Virginia authoress, was dangerously ill in the French capital and had not left her room for six months or quit her bed since early in December does not comport with the information of friends of the lady here who are in constant communication with her.

Prior to November a year ago Mrs. Chanler had in Paris two attacks of la grippe, which left her in a weakened condition, and about the beerinning of the month named she went to Algiers for the benefit of her health. She returned to Paris, but had a third attack of the malady, which rendered her bronchial tubes very sensitive to cold, and at times she suffers from bronchitis.

However, after her last attack of la grippe she went to see the Passion Play, and in Paris has been attending the theatres, pursuing her art studies, and receiving company. Her husband came to this country about the middle of November last on a matter of business and has not gone back, unless he has been very recently recalled to Paris by a cablegram, of which Mrs. Chanler's friends in Richmond have not been advised.

It is presumed that if the talented lady is confined to her room now she is suffering from bronchitis, which often ensues when she takes cold. Change of Schedule.

The attention of the travelling public is called to important changes in schedule of the Norfolk and Western railroad in effect January 11th, which appears in another column.

An especial feature of this change, and a welcome one to Richmond travel, will be a Pullman-sleeper on the 11:20 P. M. train from Richmond. Berths in this car will be ready for occupancy by 3 P. M.

This car will run between Richmond and Lynchburg. Passengers will not be called at Lynchburg till 7 A. M., thus avoiding annoyance of early arrival. Returning, cars will leave Lynchburg on night train and arrive Richmond 7:12 A. M. daily.
